QUESTION:

HALE BROS. & CO.

Why should some people pay for those who NEVER PAY?

ANSWER:

Our Answer is they should not. The Hard Cash paid by you to the Merchant who does a Credit Business, surely pays or helps to pay for goods that other people are wearing.

The Merchant who pays CASH down for his purchases and sells strictly for CASH, undoubtedly is in a position to undersell all CREDIT-buying or CREDITselling Establishments.

PITIFUL SIGHTS AT THE SCENE OF DISASTER

tatements of Persons Who Escaped from the Fiery Furnace.

NEW YORK, January 31st .- A fre broke out this morning in the building formerly ccupied by the New York World, in the same block with the Times building, but separated from it by an intervening building. Strenuous efforts are making to save the Times office, but the fire is spreading rapidly, and it is feared that it cannot be controlled short of the corner where the Times office is located. There is an unconfirmed rumor of the loss of several lives. LOCATION OF THE FIRE. The block in which the fire is burning is an irregular-shaped gore. The Tribune office is diagonally across Nassau street from the Times office, and the Sun office is on the upper corner of the same block with the Tribune. The fire has been burning fiercely for an hour, taking hold of the top of the buildings and sending up large masses of flames. Irenæus Prime sends the following note to the Associated Press: "The New York Observer has been burned out, and this week's issue will be delayed." The Observer office was at 37 Park Row, in the old World building. There were a large number of offices, stores and advertising agencies in that and adjoining houses.

12 o'clock .- The Times building is saved, but is considerably damaged. The flames are confined to the Beekman street and Park Row corner of the block. LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED.

It is stated that four bodies were recovered in Nassau street of persons killed by jumping from windows. It is feared that the loss of life will be heavier than at first believed. The building was crowded with employes, and very few could have escaped by the stairways.

An old gray-haired woman was seen in the fourth story of the World building, appealing for help. Her lips were seen to move, but her voice could not be heard. All who saw her were horror-stricken. The flames raged about her person, igniting her hair and clothing. She fell back into the flames, and was not seen again.

A young girl wearing a blue dress, who was from the window, there were two men hang-ing from window sills by their finger ends. The ladders were too short to reach them, and they were saved by firemen mounting on one another's shoulders, and the men let themselves down by their aid. Men could be seen holding the hands of women, evidently encouraging them to calmness. Three women can on the roof and fell through the skylight of one of the northern buildings, receiving serious injuries.

A bootblack at the corner of Beekman street and Park Row, seeing some men en-tangled in the telegraph wires adjoining the burning premises, climbed the pole and cut the wires, releasing them from their critical One boy leaped from the fifth story, and were told by the driver to jump on the wagon, were told by the driver to jump on the wagon, which they did, and escaped any serious hurt. One young woman stood up on the window sill of the fourth story until the firemen arranged a ladder and piece of canvas, which they held at the ends and sides. When all was ready she threw her hands straight over her head and jumped. She fell upon the outstretched canvass and escaped in our stretched canvass and escaped in o

STATEMENT OF AN OCCUPANT. The following statement regarding the origin of the fire was made by one of the oc-cupants of the building: I was passing down the rear or Nassau street stairs of No. 37 Park Row, and when near the foot of the GROCERIES, LIQUORS, ETC.

Passing back through the building calling the rassing back through the building caning the alarm, I came out on the Park Row side. The engine room adjoins the bottom of the shaft, and the fire must have begun there and gained its impetus before any alarm was given. in safety, amid the cheers of the crowd.

ANOTHER STATEMENT.

Another occupant said : I was in my office this morning when I smelled smoke. I went out into the hall and saw a heavy volume of out into the hall and saw a heavy volume of smoke coming up the hoistway. I went back into the office and said to two men who were there, "The building is on fire, and you had better get out as quick as you can," and grabbed my hat and overcoat and ran out into the hall, and then the flames were rushing up the elevator shaft and also up the well-hole in the center of the building. I ran down the stairway on the Park-row side of the building, for the flames were all about the stairs on the Nassau-street side, and it was impossible to escape in that way. I am certain I was the last man down the stairs, for I turned about as I reached the doorway and looked up the stair, and the whole entrance of the building was apparently in flames. Three men appeared on the window-sill, but while a ladder was being put in position one of the men dropped, in the hope of catching it, and, missing his aim, fell to the street, his head striking the curbstone. He was fatally injured.

With the aid of a derrick and a score of stalwart arms, a ladder was placed directly stalwart arms, a ladder was placed directly stalwart arms, a ladder was placed directly under the feet of one man. He was a young man, and nearer the flames. But with a display of bravery that called forth cheers from the multitudes who saw the act, he stretched out his hands to the older man, and helped him to descend first. As the older man reached the sidewalk, his appearance was greeted with cheers. His name is A. M. Stewart, owner and proprietor of the American Journal. Then the ladder was shipped, and the hero of the fire descended. His name is Edward Moore, a compositor in the Scot-Narrow Escape of the "Times" Office is Edward Moore, a compositor in the Scot-

ESCAPE OF THE "TIMES" OFFICE. The fire burned through into the Times but did not damage the editorial-rooms. The composing-room was flooded with water, and two holes were made in the walls and ceiling by the firemen. Some of the offices south of the Times editorial-rooms, on the floor above and below, were damaged by smoke and water.

The walls of the Postoffica were so hot that the offices on the Park Row side were vacated and the heavy iron shutters closed. MISSING MEN-PARTIAL LIST OF LOSSES AND INSURANCE. Among the persons reported missing, and who are supposed to have lost their lives, are A. J. Todd, a patent lawyer, and his clerk,

James H. Hunter.

The building on the corner of Park Row and Beekman street was occupied by the New York World from 1860 until its removal to its new quarters a few months ago. It is known as the Potter building, and was valued by its owner at $300,000; but it was old, and the total loss in its destruction is not over $200,000. It was insured for $175,000. over $200,000. It was insured for $10,000. Among its tenants were the New York Belting and Packing Company, who will probably be the heaviest losers. Their stock was valued at about $150 000; the insurance exceeds $100,000. Willy Wallacks imported a large amount of stationery, and $75,000 will not probably cover the loss on his store. A few minutes later a negro woman appeared at the third-story window of the World office on the Park Row side, and also jumped to the sidewalk. She was badly injered, and taken to the Chambers-street Hospital.

When the woman who was killed jumped from the window, there were two men hang. hot to work among till they can be cooled by the streams of water now being played upon them, and that will require a long time. Then there are the standing walls to tear down. It will not be safe to commence the terrible work of exhumation until they are leveled. From all that I can learn the loss of life must be frightful. Firemen early on the ground inform me that about thirty women and girl were seen at the windows on the Park Row front, and that an instant later the same windows were ablaze. This leads me to suspect that the number of lost is larger than is generally believed. I should not be surprised to hear that from 60 to 75 perished. PRTIMATED LOSSES

At 11 to-night the engines were still playing on the ruins, which burned brightly despite the firemen's efforts. The sides of the building on Beekman and Nassau streets have been demolished, completely obstructing both streets. The front of the old Evening Mail building was scorched and blackened, and did not centain a sound pane of glass. The front piece of the Morse building is also badly damaged by falling walls. The flames will hardly be extinguished until morning, and it will be late in the afternoon before the ruins will be cool enough to allow a search for the

JUNIPERO SERRA'S GRAVE DISCOVERED.

Quite a ripple of excitement was caused on our streets last Tuesday when it was reported that the long-lost and much sought for grave of Father Junipero Serra, the illustrious founder of this city and the San Carlos Mission, had been found in the latter place. For the following particulars we are indebted to Rev. Father Casanova, parish priest of this place, who has always taken a deep interest in this matter: Some time since Father Casanova ordered workmen to clear away the rubbish, which was from two to three feet deep, from the floor of the church, so that a strict search could be made for the graves of the priests and American, was insured, but in the case of the latter institution a heavy loss is sustained by private persons—patentees and inventors, whose models were in the keeping of the firm. the stairs. Bruce stayed to throw his subscription books into the street, and was overtaken by the fire. He succeeded, however, in locking the safe and fled through a window.
On the coping under the windows he crept to An old gentleman with white hair got out of the fourth-story window on the Beekman street side. He stood on the sill fully five minutes, hold on to the narrow piece with his hands. The flames were approaching him, but he saw no chance of escape. The firemen raised a ladder but it only reached to the story below him. The crowd in the street got a tarraulio, and a score of willing hands braved the dangers of the falling hands braved the dangers of the falling heard by the old gentleman, "Jump! jump for your life! He turned for ward, facing the street, and with his hands behind him stood like a statue, braving death. Meantime two brave men got short ladders, went up a long fire ladder and held it up to him, and steadied it while he slowly climbed down. Just as he reached the long ladder the flames were burned with the office. From memory the following list was given: New york Observer: The Field and Navaryups statusers.

Why then should any one give so much as a cent to help this willain to procure a new trial? RUSSIA, GLADSTONE AND THE JEWS. It will not be possible for Mr. Gladstone to maintain his present position regarding the Russian Jews without losing reputation as an honest man. At present he has laid himself open to very serious suspicions of hypocrisy and demagogism, and the more closely the case is examined the harder it is to put a dignified explanation on his conduct. All the world remembers with what fierceness he attacked the Turks at the time of the "Bulgarian atrocities." He literally raged about the country, denouncing "the un-'speakable Turk ;" writing furious letters to the Times; making red-hot speeches; declaring that England ought to be the ally of Russia in the war against the Porte; and in short conducting himself in a most sensational and vehement way. In New York Government bonds are quoted at All the world remembers this, and all the world now knows that in the case of the treatment by Russia of her Jewish subjects a second "Bulgarian atrocities" exists; and that Mr. Gladstone, whose sympa-In San Francisco half dollars are quoted at 1 disthies gushed out so freely and copiously towards the subjects of the Sultan, has actually refused to take the first step people. Mr. Gladstone is a very supersubtle casuist, and perhaps he has been able to discover some difference between the cases of the Bulgarians and the Russian Jews. But the civilized world recognizes no such distinction, and it will say of Mr. Gladstone's attitude that it shows his prejudices and his political cunning to be more potent factors in his conduct than humanity or honesty.

The accounts of the persecution which after long delays have at length found their way into some of the London journals, are horrible. All over Russia, in towns as well as villages, there have been the most savage and cruel attacks upon the Jews. Murder, rape, mutilation, torture, robbery, starvation, flogging, drowning, burning alive, all this interingled with every possible indignity and insult; this is what has been visited upon the Jews by the brutal Russian populace.

ING and UNDERWEAR was of two kinds—that made at home or made to order. Between these two methods there was barely any competition, both had to rely alike on the speed and expertness of individual needlework, and the only question was simply a choice between the supposed greater honesty of homework, and the better shape and fit of the shop-made garments. But all has been changed by the mid-century inventions. Now, the Mother at home, whether she makes clothes for her boys, shirts for her husband, or even underwear for herself, has to compete with the Swiftest Factory Sewing Machines, run by untiring steampower. More than this, the manufacturer buys his materials for less than she can do, and saves by the cutting of many garments at once the waste and extravagance attendant on home work. He makes no misfits; his operators are skilled by constant practice. In fact, there is hardly any longer a question about cost. Every one knows which is cheapest in a money view. Still, two kinds of objections linger against ready-made work: One, that the saving in money is more than lost in shoddy-work and deceptive material; the other, that garments cut to fit thousands can never fit perfectly any one person. Shoddy work and illfits may be true of Factory work in the past, and partly true to-day. It is so in the growth of every new industry. But those who urge these objections have certainly failed to notice the care the reputable manufacturers

Wedel vs. Herman to the Supreme Court was whether a defective certificate of acknowledgent to the deed of a married woman, puiporting to transfer her separate real property, can be reformed in a Court of equity. The Court vouchsafes to answer that her deed thus executed and acknowledged may be valid, though defectively certified. The embodiment of the fact of acknowledgment in the form of the certificate, prescribed by law, devolves upon the officer who has taken the proof of it and not upon the party making it. In taking the acknowledgment the offiit. In taking the acknowledgment the officer acts judicially; and, if he blunders in certifying to an acknowledgment made, or makes a defective or false certificate, he cannot alter or amend it, because, after taking the acknowledgment and delivering the return, his functions cease and he is discharged from all further authority. But what he from all further authority. But what he cannot do may now be done by a Court of quity, for, by Section 1202 of the Civil Code, risdiction to correct a defective certificate f acknowledgment properly made has been conferred upon the Superior Court. The decision also affirms the principle that when a defendant answers the complaint and goes to trial upon the issues made by the pleadings in the case, and judgment is rendered against him, he cannot, on appeal from the judgment, avail himself of defects in the complaint which might have been reached by

A WONDERFUL CURE.

A Consumptive at Death's Door Brought to Life. The following statement of William J. "In the fall of 1876 I was taken with a vic lent bleeding of the lungs, followed by a severe and painful cough, which gave me ne rest, either day or night. I soon began to lose my appetite and lost flesh considerably. I was compelled shortly to quit work, and was so weak at one time that I could not leave my bed unless I was assisted. In the summer of 1877 I was admitted to the City time a report went around that I was dead. I was discouraged and gave up hope, but a friend told me of Dr. William Hall's Balsar for the Lungs. I laughed at my friends thinking at that time that my case was incurable, but they pleaded so earnestly that I got a bottle to satisfy them, thinking it would do me no good, when, to my surprise and gratification, I soon commenced to feel better. My spirits rose; my hope, once dead, began to revive, and to-day I feel in better spirits than I have for the past three years.

DOMESTIC. Fnited States Senate. Washington, January 31st, — Windom, from the Committee on Foreign Relations, reported a resolution requesting the President to transmit all correspondence between the United States and the diplomatic agencies accredited to the republics of Mexico and Guatemala since January 1, 1881, and and Guatemala since January 1, 1881, and any other information in his possession in regard to the foreign relations of the United States with each and both of said countries, or their relations with each other. Adopted. At 1:25 the Senate resumed consideration of the Sherman three-per-cent. bill. At 2:25, after a discussion, in which Haw ley and Ingalls were the principal partici-pants, the Senate rejected the Vest amend-Proposed Public Exhibition of Guiteau's Body After His Execution.

PHILADELPHIA, January 31st.—A dispatch om Washington in to-day's Press stated that Scoville had received a letter from a friend in Philadelphia, engaged in the manufacture of refrigerators and cooling apparatus oposing to preserve the assassin's body im nediately after hanging, and place it on exhibition in this country and Europe, half of the proceeds of the exhibition to be paid to way, 315 Race street, was the party who made the offer.

s received. The relatives are inclined to regard your proposition favorably, but in case of death the orain will have to be removed for a post mortem examination.

GEORGE SCOVILLE.

"The letter which I wrote Scoville last week contained this proposition. I am to have possession of the body of Guiteau immediately after death. I shall then have it killed outright, and five badly injured. It is preserved in a refrigerating apparatus upon which I have a patent. The body will be placed upon exhibition in all the principal cities of this country under my superincipal cities of this cities of thi cities of this country under my supervision, and afterwards will be taken to Europe. I and afterwards will be taken to Europe. I will pay over half the receipts to the relatives of Guiteau. The other half will be at my disposal. This is the agreement. Now I will describe the apparatus. I will have built a sort of case, about ten feet square. Three sides of the case will be a be of glass, so that the whole interior may be plainly visible. Attached to the fourth side will be the refrigerating apparatus. This consists of a series of V-shaped metallic consists of a series of v-snaped metallic troughs, extending from side to side of the room in a slanting manner. In these troughs are placed a freezing mixture, composed chiefly of ice and salt. This apparatus will preserve the body perfectly, as a continuous current of air is created, which can be constantly kept at a freezing temperature. ntend to spare no expense to have the inbe dressed just as in life, and the features will retain the expression they had immediately after they became fixed in death. I have already made partial arrangements for having it built, desiring to anticipate Scoville's acquiescence to my proposition. The case will be carried in this way as a double precaution against any accident that might result from its own cooling apparatus getting out of order. I will have personal charge of the enterprise, and will supervise the exhibition in the various cities. We will visit all the chief cities of this country, after which we will go to Europe, and probably exhibit the body in all the principal cities of that continent. I think we will do even better continent. I think we will do even better inancially there than in this country. In

Will the people of the United States want to see such a spectacle?" int to see such a spectacle:
"Well, I rather guess they will," was the boess from that point of view. Why, in reply. this very city I expect to engage the larges and most prominent place of amusement for the exhibition, and am confident of being pletely satisfied with the financial result I expect to make an outlay of at least $25,000 in fitting up the exhibition case and refrigerating car; so you can realize the scale on which I propose to conduct this enterprise. I wrote to Guiteau soon after his trial began, making a similar propos to him. He wrote a reply, saying that he was disposed to regard my proposition with favor, but would have to refer me to his counsel. I have no feeling for Guiteau one way or the other. He is simply a condemned criminal. This is purely a business matter with me. I don't know what Guiteau's relatives think about it, but they are poor, and it seems to me that after all the abuse they have received from him during the trial, and all they have had to suffer in consequence of his act, they ought to have some recompense. Now, I haven't the slightest doubt that their share of the proceeds from this enterprise will amount to between say $40,000 and $50,000. This will be some consolation to them after all they have suffered. I am conducting this enterprise alone, but there is plenty of capital to back it." A California Girl in Trouble.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN. There are many at the age of thirty to sixty whe are troubled with too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting of burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.
